Description of Events:

Tug-of-war:

Exactly the event it sounds like. Show up and play a round or a few. Points are awarded for participating.

Gaga:

Gaga is a game played in a hexagonal pit with one or more balls. All the players start out with a hand on the pit wall as the ball is tossed in. From there the ball is allowed to bounce three times before players swat the ball at each other using only their hands and attempting to hit other players below their knees. If a player is hit they must exit the pit until the next round. Last one standing is the winner. Show and play a round or a few. Points are awarded for participating.

Capture the flag:

A scouting classic with a new twist, this version uses soccer balls as flags and is played on a soccer field seize area. An equal amount of balls is given to each team and they line up their balls in the back on there half of the field. When the go signal is given players attempt to steal balls from the opposing team by touching the ball before they are tagged. Should they succeed they are allowed to walk back to their own side. Should they fail, they freeze and wait to be tagged free by a teammate. The objective is to steal all the balls. Show and play a round or a few. Points are awarded for participating.

Survival Bracelets:

Craft original bracelets out of over 8 feet of paracord to wear during your next hike or everyday life. Should the event arise where you need rope, (shelter making, fire building, lost hair tie) then you will be in good shape. Points are awarded when each present member of the crew has made a bracelet.

XC Race:

Points are awarded based on finishing position. Kilts for the kilt run will be provided. Should you desire to race in a kilt other than the Campbell tartan you may bring your own. Racing in scout pants/ scout uniform is acceptable.

Scavenger Hunt:

Descriptions listed after the events. Please collect the signatures of people who currently have the rank or award. Turn in papers the night of the second cracker barrel.

Star Wars Trivia:

Test your knowledge of Star Wars by answering as many consecutive questions on planets, characters, and plot as possible. Points will go to the top three Crews who answer the most consecutive questions correctly.

Woodsman competitions: (log throwing)

Toss cabers as far as possible. Each crewmember will attempt to toss a caber as far as possible. The top 10 throws of the day earn points for their team.

Geocaching:

While journeying to each activity if a geocache is found and evidence of which is recorded, then the crew shall receive 5 points for each cache. Acceptable evidence is a selfie.
