

WILDERNESS FIRST AID & CPR TRAINING

Wilderness First Aid Training:

Wilderness First Aid (WFA) is the assessment of and treatment given to an ill or injured person in a remote environment where definitive care by a physician and or rapid transport is not readily available. Participants will learn how to

- assess,
- treat,
- and (when possible) contact emergencies within the scope of their training.

This course goes far beyond what you may know as "first aid." While it contains substantial medical information and teaches skills required for medical emergencies in the wild, the deeper purpose is to train participants to manage acute situations. The bottom line is this: Better decision-making at the incident scene miles from base facilities can save valuable time and human resources. It can save lives, too.
