

WENDELL WEEKS AND KIM FROCK

Beyond their individual achievements, Wendell Weeks, longtime Corning Incorporated Chairman and CEO, and his wife, Kim Frock, have made a significant collective impact on nearly all aspects of life in the Southern Tier. They have invested both their time and resources in the support of education, the arts, and community members in need.

Their commitment to community can be seen in the establishment of The Alternative School for Math & Science, the creation of the Food Bank's mobile food pantry program, and major expansions of 171 Cedar Arts and The Studio at the Corning Museum of Glass.

Wendell and Kim's persistent, often quiet efforts to positively impact life in the Southern Tier reflect a broader dedication to making the community a great place to live and work, fostering growth and empowerment for generations to come.
