

Cub Scout Position-Specific Training

Participant Information Guide

Start the Cub Scout year strong! Whether you are a brand-new leader, an experienced volunteer stepping into a new role, or a parent thinking about helping your Pack, this training is designed to give you the confidence, tools, and connections needed for a successful year in Cub Scouting.

What is this training?

This free in-person training prepares Cub Scout leaders to deliver an exciting, safe, and successful program. Through interactive discussion and practical examples, participants will explore program planning, leadership roles, youth development, and the resources available to help leaders succeed.

Who should attend?

- Cubmasters and Assistant Cubmasters
- Den Leaders and Assistant Den Leaders
- Pack Committee Members
- New parents considering Cub Scout leadership roles who want to learn more about volunteer opportunities and responsibilities

Training Completion Information

This course completes the Position-Specific Training requirements for Pack Committee Members.

Cubmasters and Den Leaders will also need to complete the online Hazardous Weather Training to be considered fully trained. Completing Hazardous Weather before attending is strongly encouraged.
