2nd Period 10:00-11:50 AM David Gardner |  CS307 How do I get more people to volunteer?
Part 1: Learning the framework
Getting people to volunteer always seems to be a struggle. When not enough people volunteer, unit leaders burn out more quickly and the program suffers. Come learn about a story-telling framework that will help you clarify your recruiting message, making it more likely that the adults in your unit engage in helpful ways. Having more people volunteer will make your job easier and will help your unit thrive. Part 2: Clarifying your stories
Learning is always better when immediately followed by the chance to try out your new skills. Without guided practice, you might be unsure whether you are doing it right. Come participate in the second session to develop your skills using the story-telling framework and refine your recruiting message in a workshop setting with the guidance and support of other scouters. Finish the class with confidence in knowing you will be better equipped to face the challenges of recruiting volunteers.
Prerequisites: This is a two credit class only if both sessions are attended. |
