If you have any questions or concerns

Structure Tone is building everything from New York's iconic office towers, to hospitals, to the cool hotels that you sleep in on vacation. Want to know how it's done? They can show you! This experience will allow you to step into the shoes of a professional in the construction industry. While working as a team, you will learn about estimating, how to read construction plans, go to an actual jobsite, visit the offices of the Gensler design team and finally, prepare a bit to present to company management.

Don't hesitate! Come and experience what it's like to be in the construction management industry.
