

Cub Scout Leader Position-Specific Training

If you're a new Cub Scout Leader, or an experienced leader who is taking on a new position, or a parent of a Cub Scout who wants to get involved, this course is for you! Cub Scout Leader Position-Specific Training will show you everything you need to know about Cub Scouting, the role and responsibilities of adult leaders (Cubmasters and their assistants, Den Leaders and their assistants, and Pack Committee Chairs and Members), and the resources available to help ensure your success.

This instructor-led offering is a comprehensive version of the basic training for Cub Scouters, and this training does not expire. So, after successfully completing this one day session you will have completed the required leader-specific training for all of the above Cub Scouting leadership positions. Please note that Cubmasters, Den Leaders, and their assistants also are required to complete Hazardous Weather Training (every two years), which is not part of this offering but is available on-line.

In-person training provides a wonderful opportunity for your entire leadership team to learn how all of the moving parts that make a pack work, plus it fosters teamwork and allows for the sharing of ideas with other likeminded Scouters.

For this session it is suggested that you bring notepaper, pen or pencil, a sense of humor, and a willingness to learn. Please wear your Cub Scout Leader uniform (if you have one).
